4.10 Charging Personal Devices

4.10.1 Individual hand-held devices may be charged using library-provided power strips marked by “Charging Zone” signage so long as cords don’t extend beyond the table and don’t pose a hazard to others. Patrons may not plug devices directly into electrical outlets on the floor.

4.10.2 Hand-held devices may not be charged using electrical outlets marked by “No Charging Zone” signage or anywhere not identified by “Charging Zone” signage.

4.10.3 Patrons may charge a maximum of two devices at a time. Devices may not be unattended. Patron’s power strips, battery backup units, surge protectors, and any other hardware to charge multiple devices cannot be connected or used in conjunction with library power strips in “Charging Zones” that may create a circuit overload or anything else that may create a safety hazard.

4.10.4 Patrons may not plug into library power strips for public computers. A single phone may only be charged using a USB port on the front of the workstation while a patron is currently logged in to the workstation.

4.10.5 The library will not be responsible for any damage to a patron’s device(s) while attempting to charge utilizing library outlets.

4.10.6 The library reserves the right to utilize tables normally used for public charging of devices for library programs and activities.

4.10.7 The device-charging table in Feldheym’s Children’s Room may only be used to charge devices by adults who have children in the immediate vicinity and within line of sight of the child.

6.8 Unaccompanied Adults

The children’s area of the library is reserved for children, their parents or responsible adult caregivers, and adults interested in reading children’s literature classes. Out of concern for the safety of young patrons, adults who are unaccompanied by a child or children in the children’s area of the Library may be questioned by staff and may be asked to move to another area of the Library. Please see Section 4.10.7 regarding the use of the device-charging table in Feldheym’s Children’s Room.
