- Land Acknowledgement update
  AIPP to consider writing a letter of support in response to a recommendation made during January SWOT. There was discussion about the city's development of a Land Acknowledgement statement. Opinions were expressed. No vote was taken. This discussion will continue when Angel McKinley-Paige attends the April meeting.

- A Land Acknowledgment is a formal statement that recognizes and respects Indigenous Peoples as traditional stewards of this land.
- Land acknowledgments do not exist in a past tense, or historical context: colonialism is a current ongoing process, and we need to build our mindfulness of our present participation.
- Making it common practice to read land acknowledgements before gatherings, is one equitable practice that helps communities, municipalities, organizations and individuals understand and recognize where the land they inhabit came from, how it evolved, its history, who made contributions, who has benefited, and how that journey from its first peoples to its current inhabitants affects us now.
- Land acknowledgements lead to further understanding and exploration of the history of colonialism and the real, lived history of Indigenous peoples in our region. It embraces an understanding of oral traditions, and new ways of thinking about the land. This, hopefully, will inform decision-making in our contemporary society.
